

Rez2020: Welcome to the new age booking experience

The new website simplifies the online booking process with high-quality design and strong performance features.

Travel Designer Group has revamped its popular travel booking website – RezLive.com to fit the practice and booking approach of the new millennia. Along with the lively new design, several new features, many of which are the first time in the industry are introduced to make your booking experience smooth and exciting.

The primary objective of this redesign is to reduce the overall time taken in booking and managing your reservations on our website. Innovative design is combined with the existing features to improve user experience and easy access to the account information.

“Rez2020 is an outcome of our clients’ feedback. This project is of great significance to us and our travel partners.”
